VOL. XXII., No. 16. NEW YORK, October 14, 1882. WHOLE No. 561.

NEW REVISED EDITION OF BANCROFT'S UNITED STATES.

HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES,

From the Discovery of the Continent to the Establishment of the Constitution in 1789.

By GEORGE BANCROFT.

*An entirely new edition, partly rewritten and thoroughly revised.
Published complete in six volumes, octavo.*

THE undersigned have great pleasure in announcing a new revised edition of BANCROFT'S world-famous HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES, in a style and at a price that will meet a popular want.

The work has been for some time passing through the hands of the author, who has made extensive changes in the text, condensing in places, enlarging in others, and carefully revising, making it practically a new work—embodying the results of the latest researches, and enjoying the advantage of the author's long and mature experience.

The original octavo edition is in twelve volumes. The present edition will be completed in six volumes, octavo, the price being just half that of the original edition. The type will be necessarily smaller, but in general style it will not be inferior, the intention being to make it an exceptionally handsome specimen of book-making.

Volume I. will be published about November 1, 1882. The other volumes will follow at short intervals.

Handsomely printed from new type, and bound in cloth, uncut, with gilt top.

Price, $2.50 per volume.

TO THE TRADE.

The undersigned had originally intended to issue this edition of Bancroft as a subscription-book, through canvassing agents, but various circumstances have induced them to abandon this plan and to offer it to the general trade, with the conviction that in so important a work as this booksellers throughout the country would make special efforts to bring it before the bookbuying residents of every town. In order that this may be effectually done, a subscription-book containing prospectus and specimen pages will be furnished every bookseller who may wish it, and circulars with his address affixed will be supplied. The volumes will be sold separately as issued; but every bookseller will see the advantage to himself of securing, if possible, each purchaser as a subscriber to the complete work.

LIVY.

THE LEGENDARY HISTORY OF ROME.—From the Foundation by Romulus (B.C. 753) to the Destruction of the City by the Gauls (B.C. 390). Translated from the original text of Livy, by GEORGE BAKER, A.M. Illustrated with 160 engravings from antique statuary and the best historical paintings. A novel feature is the introduction of MACAULAY'S "LAYS OF ANCIENT ROME" (illustrated) in their appropriate places in the history. Folio, cloth, gilt, $7.50.

The early history of Rome is far more poetical than anything else in Latin literature. The loves of the Vestal and the God of War, the cradle laid among the reeds of Tiber, the fig-tree, the she-wolf, the shepherd's cabin, the recognition, the fratricide, the rape of the Sabines, the death of Tarpeia, the fall of Hostus Hostilius, the struggle of Mettus Curtius through the marsh, the women rushing with torn raiment and dishevelled hair between their fathers and their husbands, the nightly meetings of Numa and the Nymph by the well in the sacred grove, the fight of the three Romans and the three Albans, the purchase of the Sibylline books, the crime of Tullia, the simulated madness of Brutus, the ambiguous reply of the Delphian oracle to the Tarquins, the wrongs of Lucretia, the heroic actions of Horatius Cocles, of Scævola, and of Cloelia, the battle of Regillus won by the aid of Castor and Pollux, the defence of Cremera, the touching story of Coriolanus, the still more touching story of Virginia, the wild legend about the draining of the Alban lake, the combat between Valerius Corvus and the gigantic Gaul, are among the many instances which will at once suggest themselves to every reader. In the narrative of Livy, who was a man of fine imagination, those stories retain much of their genuine character, which not even the tasteless Dionysius was able to distort and mutilate into mere prose; it is discernible in the most tedious and in the most superficial modern works on the early History of Rome.

SUETONIUS.

THE LIVES OF THE TWELVE CÆSARS. By C. SUETONIUS TRANQUILLUS. The translation of ALEXANDER THOMSON, M.D., revised and corrected. Illustrated with 24 portraits on steel from authentic antique statues and busts of the Emperors and their contemporaries in the museums of Europe. 8vo, plain cloth, $3.75; extra gilt, $4.50.

 Suetonius' "Lives of the Cæsars" was held in such estimation that so soon after the invention of printing as the year A.D. 1500 no fewer than eighteen editions had been published, and nearly one hundred have since been added to the number.

This is the first American edition, with copious notes, and is printed from new pica type.

The Life of Joshua Davidson;

Or, The Modern Imitation of Christ. A Theoretical Novel. By E. LYNN LINTON. Second Edition. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

ARGUMENT.—A pure and moral enthusiast undertakes to live in the present day the life of Christ on earth, and the reader will see how he succeeds.

The Apochryphal New Testament:

Being the Gospels and Epistles used by the Followers of Christ in the First Three Centuries after His Death, and Rejected by the Council of Nice, A.D. 325. Illustrated with 32 engravings from Ancient Missals. 1 vol., royal 8vo, $1.50.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

Will Publish Oct. 21st :

I.

Swinton's Army of the Potomac. A critical History of Operations in Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania, from the Commencement to the Close of the War, 1861-5. By WILLIAM SWINTON. A new and revised edition, with additions. With steel plate portraits and maps. 1 vol., 8vo, cloth, $3.

Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons have great pleasure in announcing the republication—with revision and considerable additions by the author—of a book which will always rank among the most brilliant and authoritative works in American military history.

As now published, though at a greatly reduced price, the volume will contain steel portraits and the admirable maps which formed a valuable feature of the earlier edition; and, in spite of the additions, the convenient size and clearness of the former page will be retained.

II.

Corea, the Hermit Nation. By WILLIAM ELIOT GRIFFIS, author of "The Mikado's Empire," and late of the Imperial University of Tokio, Japan. 1 vol., 8vo, with numerous maps and illustrations, $3 50.

Mr. Griffis' book, which is the first attempt to treat of Corea and the Coreans in a systematic and serious manner, is brought down to and includes events of the present year; especially an account of the recent revolution in Corea, which has drawn particular attention to that country, and thus gives a certain timeliness to the work.

The qualifications of the author are well known, and his achievements in a kindred field attest his ability and trustworthiness. The book is enriched with very numerous maps and illustrations from sketches and photographs.

III.

Science and Sentiment. Essays Chiefly Philosophical. By NOAH PORTER, D.D., LL.D. 1 vol., crown 8vo, $2.50.

President Porter's high attainments as a metaphysician, and his fine literary sense, give to the occasional productions of his pen a more than ephemeral value. These essays on living themes of philosophy, or concerning philosophical leaders, embrace a summary of the teachings of the prevailing schools of philosophy and a criticism of their pretensions.

IV.

The Irish Question. By PROFESSOR DAVID BENNETT KING, of Lafayette College. 1 vol., $1.50.

He has spent the last two summers in Ireland, seeing for himself the actual state of things in all parts of the island, and conferring with the Irish leaders and with the English statesmen who are most actively concerned in the management or discussion of Irish affairs. His knowledge being thus obtained at first hand, will give his book a wide influence and usefulness in opening the eyes of outsiders to the actual condition of Ireland and its relations with England.

V.

Cupid, M.D.: A Story. By AUGUSTUS M. SWIFT. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.

Not only is there originality in the plot of Mr. Swift's story, but a new writer of very unusual powers is revealed in the rare combination of lightness and strength which this plot calls for.

It is safe to prophesy a very unusual success for the book, if only from curiosity as to its striking plot; but it will have an importance beyond this in securing the immediate recognition of a very noteworthy new pen in American fiction.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS have just issued an entirely new, complete, and uniform edition of all the celebrated works written by Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth, the popular sensational writer. Her last work, "Self-Made; or, Out of the Depths," has just been issued in two volumes, under the titles of "Ishmael; or, In the Depths," and "Self-raised; or, From the Depths." The former contains a new portrait of Mrs. Southworth, the other a view of her cottage on the Potomac and its surroundings. This new edition is in duodecimo form, is printed on fine white paper, is complete in forty-three volumes, and each volume is bound in morocco cloth, with a full gilt back, and is sold at $1.75 a volume, or $75.25 for a full and complete set, put up in a neat box.

R. WORTHINGTON has ready this week "Picturesque Journeys in America of the Junior United Tourist's Club," edited by the Rev. Edward T. Bromfield, editor of Church and People. The volume cannot fail to prove highly interesting to old and young; it is full of illustrations, and is attractively bound. He will also publish at once "Hall's Ireland, Old and New," in three volumes, with numerous colored plates and engravings in the text. Mr. Worthington desires to call the attention of booksellers visiting New York to the large stock of standard and miscellaneous books, embracing fine and cheap editions of standard authors, which he is closing out previous to giving up his retail business and removal to other quarters.

D. APPLETON & Co. announce that they have in preparation a new and revised edition of George Bancroft's "History of the United States." The publishers state that "the work has been for some time passing through the hands of the author, who has made extensive changes in the text, condensing in places, enlarging in others, and carefully revising, making it practically a new work, embodying the results of the latest researches, and enjoying the advantage of the author's long and mature experience." The work will be published in six octavo volumes at $2.50 each. The first volume may be expected November 1; the other volumes will follow at short intervals. The publishers having abandoned the original plan of publishing the work by subscription, booksellers have the field to themselves. The publishers will furnish subscription-books containing prospectus and specimen pages and imprint circulars to those who may wish to secure for themselves subscriptions to the complete work.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will issue this week a new edition of "The Land of the Arabian Nights," travels in the Orient, by W. P. Fogg; "Helen of Troy," Mr. Andrew Lang's long-promised poem; "Criteria of Diverse Kinds of Truth," by Dr. McCosh; "Idyls of Norway, and other Poems," by H. H. Boyesen; "Webster," Mr. W. C. Wilkinson's remarkable ode; a volume on St. Luke's Gospel in Dr. Schaff's new "International Revision Commentary on the New Testament," and "Love for Souls," by Rev. William Scribner. They will publish next week "Science and Sentiment," a volume of essays, "chiefly philosophical," by President Noah Porter, embracing a summary of the teachings of the prevailing schools of philosophy and a criticism of their pretensions; "The Irish Question," by Professor David Bennett King, of Lafayette College, who has spent the last two summers in Ireland, seeing for himself the actual state of things and conferring with Irish leaders and English statesmen; "Cupid, M.D.," a love story by Augustus M. Swift, said to be a noteworthy and striking book; Swinton's "Army of the Potomac," thoroughly revised and enlarged; and "Corea, the Hermit Nation," by William Elliot Griffis, an interesting sketch of an interesting and exclusive people.

JAS. R. OSGOOD & Co. have now ready their handsome holiday gift-book, "The Lady of the Lake," by Sir Walter Scott. The illustrations, 120 in number, are by A. B. Frost, Harry Fenn, E. H. Garrett, L. S. Ipsen, P. T. Merrill, F. B. Schell, Mary Hallock Foote, J. Appleton Brown, Granville Perkins, E. H. Hayden, J. D. Woodward, and A. V. S. Anthony. Mr. Anthony superintended the drawing and engraving of the illustrations, which were taken from sketches made by him in Scotland, and have the value of photographs of the scenery described in the poem. The landscapes present the scenes as they appear to-day; while the costumes and general accessories belong to the period when the poem was written. The illustrations are remarkable for the strength and truthfulness of the figure-pieces and exquisite touches in the landscapes. The publication in every respect is a valuable contribution to art, and one of superior mechanical finish. The volume, apart from its merit as a poem, will have great historical value in its new superb presentation. They have also just published a unique ribbon-tied volume, entitled "Grandmother's Garden," edited and arranged by Kate Sanborn, including poems by Rose Terry, Cooke, Lucy Larcom, Edna Dean Proctor, Hezekiah Butterworth, Mary D. Brine, Julia C. R. Dorr, and Marion Harland, whose autographs are on the cover. There are also prose selections on the subject by Mary Russel Mitford and others. The poems are pleasing and appropriate, and the illustrated covers, one of which represents grandma in the garden, are rich specimens of harmonious coloring and graceful design. The unexpected extra orders for "The Lady of the Lake," and for Mr. Howells' "Modern Instance," which is also just ready, have retarded until this week the publication of "The Life of the late Dr. William Rimmer," by T. H. Bartlett, with illustrations from his paintings, drawings, and sculptures.

Mr. Baldwin has given the story of Siegfried (from the Niebelungen Lied) in a way in which it most appeals to the boy reader; simply and strongly, with all its fire and action, yet without losing any of its strange charm or heroic pathos; he has not given a literal rendering of the ancient myth, but has changed and recast such portions of it as he deemed advisable, sometimes drawing from one version of the story and sometimes from another, and often largely from his own imagination; the text is fitly accompanied by a series of exceedingly fine illustrations by Mr. Pyle.

The author divides the book among the sports of the four seasons, and he has made an almost exhaustive collection of the cleverest modern devices—besides himself inventing an immense number of capital and practical ideas—in kite-making, fishing, aquarium-making, trapping, taxidermy, home-made hunting apparatus, boat-building, boat-rigging and sailing, camping out, balloons, ice-boating, snowball warfare, winter fishing, sled-building, puppet shows.

"This work, which contains the results of a series of observations and investigations in regard to present English art in its relation to life and education in England, is, in effect, a history of the recent renaissance in England, combined with a very elaborate and discriminative description of the more important fruits of the movement. The account of the growth of the South Kensington Museum and of its present condition—to which the first portion of the book is devoted—is full, lucid, judicious, rich in anecdote and allusion suggested by the invaluable objects displayed within and upon the walls of the museum, and enlivened by graphic accounts of the origin and history of some of the more curious treasures. In his treatment of the remaining portion of the work Mr. Conway is equally happy and instructive. The buildings and interiors used as examples of the successful application of the highest principles of architecture and decoration have been selected with great judgment, and their peculiar features portrayed with singular appreciation and critical discernment."

On the whole, it is as well as it is carefully written, all the necessary prominent points being fully brought out, and there being a good analysis of character and ability. As the record of one who influenced permanently the religious character of his times, by making men more faithful, hopeful and charitable, the volume is entitled to the attention of all; as the story of what simple faith, enthusiasm and eloquence may accomplish in the service of God, the volume may claim lasting remembrance."—Boston Globe.
- Endlich, G. A. The law of building associations: being a treatise upon the principles of law applicable to mutual and co-operative building, homestead, saving, accumulating, loan and fund associations, benefit building societies, etc., in the United States. Jersey City, N. J., F. D. Linn & Co., 1882. 58+679 p. O. shp., net, $6.
- "In preparing the present treatise, it has been my endeavor to secure a statement of the entire law applicable to building associations. I have collected the authorities in all the states of the Union, and the decisions of the English courts so far as they appeared pertinent to the system of building associations adopted in this country. From them all I have labored to construct a work of general and particular usefulness, aiming at the elaboration of fundamental principles of universal applicability, as well as the statement, with precision and simplicity, of the variances noticeable under the laws and decisions of the several states."—Preface. Very full topical index.
- Farrar, F. W., D.D. The early days of Christianity. [Cheap ed.] N. Y., Cassell, Petter, Galpin & Co., [1882]. 18+664 p. O. cl., $2; 2 v., O. $5.
- "It describes the deeply interesting events of the early days of the Christian Church, and the state of politics and society in which the church grew up. An account is given of the lives and writings of the three pillar apostles—St. Peter, St. James and St. John—with an explanation of their epistles and of the Apocalypse. The social and political conditions of the Roman Empire, and the relation of the Church with it, are treated with Canon Farrar's well-known learning and eloquence." With this work the important series of volumes on the early church, commenced with Canon Farrar's "Life of Christ" and "Life and work of St. Paul," is completed; with notes, appendix, index, etc.

- This translation is from the last work issued by the author before his death, and, of course, embodies Guenon's very latest views, and such changes in and additions to the early treatise as his experience taught him were needed.

- 19 sermons—13 are on the religious holidays of the year, Advent, Christmas, New Year's, Holy Trinity, etc.; the remainder are entitled: The knowledge of the plague of our own heart; Contemplative piety; Seize the present time; Unsuspected danger; The eleventh hour; A door opened.
- Holland, Rev. H. S. Logic and life, with other sermons. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1882. 20+320 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- President Noah Porter, in an introductory note to these sermons, says: "The casual reader of this volume, however carelessly he may turn its leaves, can scarcely fail to find his attention arrested by many passages which are striking for fervid eloquence and weighty and profound reflection. Should he be led, by the promise of its title, to select here or there a single discourse for a more careful perusal, he will find not a few which are alike remarkable for originality of thought and eloquence of speech."
- Howells, W. D. A modern instance: a novel. Bost., James R. Osgood & Co., 1882. 514 p. D. cl., $1.50.
- "In this novel Mr. Howells has shown the comprehensive knowledge and adequate skill of a great artist. He has taken for a thread common incidents of American life that by their sad frequency are so familiar as to be lightly passed over every day in one's reading or in conversation, and fitted them to the lives of persons for whom for themselves we care very little, and brought about situations fiery with dramatic glow, and developed characters, weak ones, perhaps, into rounded, finished, complete, and beautiful works of literary art. What is the purpose of the story? That will be answered by the moralists. But those who study life and character in the world about them will study these lives and characters selected from the crowd, and find ready answers. Do not be dazzled by the brilliancy of the book; it flashes from jewels beneath, and they are what you seek."—Boston Globe.

Lazarus, Emma. Songs of a Semite: the dance to death, and other poems. N. Y., Office of The American Hebrew, 1882. 4+80 p. O. cl., 50 c.; pap., 25 c.

"The dance to death," the Critic says, "is a story of old persecution in the fourteenth century, founded on a little narrative entitled 'Der Tanz zum Tode, ein Nachtstück aus dem vierzehnten Jahrhundert,' told from the Jewish standpoint, with such accessories of incident and passion as the fierce spirit of those times might readily furnish. . . . The tone is elevated and strong, the diction fresh and poetic and vigorous." The volume also includes a number of translations from the mediæval Spanish Hebrew poets—Gabirol, Ha Levi and Ben Ezra; an In memoriam on the death of Rev. J. J. Lyons; The banner of the Jew; In exile; Crowning of the red cock; The guardian of the red disk, and her latest poem, "The New Year," written for the Rosh Hashanah (New Year) number of The American Hebrew.

One of Mr. Macdonald's home stories with a most excellent moral; it describes the downward course of a young man who starts in life with everything in his favor; he is placed in a bank, where he embezzles and loses his situation, is discarded by his father, catches the small-pox, and is generally in a miserable condition, when his good mother comes to the rescue and saves him, physically and morally; around these incidents are the details of his brothers' and sisters' lives, his father's literary career and much else of interest.

Parr, Mrs Louisa. Robin. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1882. 2+304 p. S. (Leisure hour ser., no. 140.) cl., $1.

"Robin" is the story of a loveless marriage, which fortunately has a happier ending than seems possible at first. "Robin" is the heroine, "Robina" being her real name; she is the daughter of an impoverished gentleman, who ekes out a somewhat precarious living at cards and other questionable pursuits; the story opens at Venice, just as Mr. Veriker has been told by a celebrated physician that his life hangs on a thread, and that he may die at any moment from heart disease; he begins to think of his daughter's future, who is a pretty, wild, unconventional young creature, who has had no better example before her than her father all her life; the provision he makes for her sends her to England to her uncle's family, and here the tragedy of her life occurs. By the author of "Hero Carthew" and "Adam and Eve."

The publication of Prof. Schaff's "History of the Christian church" was begun nearly a quarter of a century ago, but was for many years suspended, in consequence of pressing calls into other fields of labor; the author has now entered upon its completion in earnest, and has entirely rewritten and expanded the first section of the work; the original first volume has been more than doubled in size and grown into two volumes. This volume will be followed at intervals by others, carrying the narrative to the middle of the seventeenth century.

Towle, G. M. Drake: the sea-king of Devon. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1883 [1882]. 6+274 p. il. S. cl., $1.25.

"Sir Francis Drake, called in his own time the 'Sea-King of Devon,' was one of the chief figures in that brilliant group of genius and valor which surrounded the throne of the maiden Queen Elizabeth. He was the foremost of the sea-conquerors of his age. Amid a throng of English captains skilled in every maritime art, fearless in encounter, dauntless in attack and spirited in adventure, Drake rose to undisputed pre-eminence. . . . And his career, stirring and adventurous, bold and unrelenting from early youth to age, in spite of the piracies which were excused by his own time, though they seem wicked in ours, is full of lessons of manly qualities, and of great and often admirable deeds."—Preface.

Trall, H. D. [Laurence] Sterne. N. Y., Harper, 1882. 8+173 p. D. cl., 75 c.

"One of the most entertaining volumes which have appeared in that series. From materials of a somewhat promiscuous nature, the author, Mr. H. D. Trall, has constructed a biography which conveys a distinct and trustworthy impression of the career and character of his brilliant and witty subject, of the quality of his writings and the purposes by which he was animated in the prosecution of his literary labors. Mr. Trall gives in mere outline the main portion of Sterne's life—his wanderings with the regiment to which his father was attached; his education as a boy; his unrestrained course at Oxford; his settlement as priest in Sutton, a Yorkshire parish; his occupation there as an obscure country clergyman; his first impulses to literary production; his gradual realization of the great powers of which he was possessed; and finally the publication of the first volumes of 'Tristram Shandy' in the forty-seventh year of his age. The subsequent period, after he had suddenly become famous as the creator of Uncle Toby and Corporal Trim, is detailed with considerable minuteness, until the time when his 'Sentimental Journey' gained for him a European reputation."

Transplanted rose (A): a story of New York society. N. Y., Harper, 1882. 2+307 p. S. cl., $1.

The interest of the story centres in Rose Chadwick, a Western heiress, true-hearted, but ignorant of the world, who is sent by her father, at the age of eighteen, to be introduced into society in New York. An untutored child of nature, the heroine is used by the author with admirable effect as a foil to set off the highly artificial character of the social arrangements of life among the wealthy classes.

The Publishers' Weekly.

OCTOBER 14, 1882.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

Two communications of similar tenor have reached this office simultaneously—the one hailing from the West (Michigan), the other from the East (Connecticut). The one holds the publishers responsible for the ravages made on his community by the auctioneer tramp; the other arraigns them for selling at wholesale prices to private buyers in his town. Both protests have the ring of genuine indignation. Yet the WEEKLY must decline to publish them. Not because the charges are not borne out by facts, and not because the facts are neither better nor worse than such as have been told in the WEEKLY time and time again; and surely not for such reasons as are implied by our Eastern friend, who remarks: "You do not fire into the worst enemy of the retail bookseller, and none of us can blame you for omitting to do so, since it is from that enemy you get your advertising patronage, and we get our money's worth out of your paper." No, there are other reasons. For one, because the very one who charges the WEEKLY with advertising considerations cautiously writes, on a separate sheet, "I do not care to have my name printed;" while the other, still more cautiously, withholds his name even from the WEEKLY. Yet the latter boldly exclaims: "The time has come when booksellers must protect themselves or go down. Has not patience ceased to be a virtue? Is it not time to strike?" If it is time to strike, then do not hide your face in fear, but stand up so that you can be seen and heard. Not until booksellers shall address each other over their own names, thus gaining confidence and giving courage; not until booksellers with open visor shall face the publishers in making their charges, thus giving the latter a chance to answer; not until a solid body of united booksellers shall back their argument by action, thus showing that there is a meaning in their words, not until then will there be any hope for a conversion of the publishers. Sweeping charges published anonymously, neither showing the man who deals the blow, nor him at whom the blow is aimed, are blows in the air. The WEEKLY has already, at its own expense, given too much space for "blows"—dealt to no purpose.

UNDER some wrong impression the price of Poole's "Index to Periodical Literature" was given erroneously as $25, in our Fall Announcement Lists. In order to give this correction due prominence, we quote from Mr. Poole's report at the conference of Librarians at Cincinnati (for full report see Library Journal for July–August) the following:

"In making this my final report of progress on the new edition of the 'Index to Periodical Literature,' I have the pleasure of stating that the manuscript is finished; that the printing is begun; and that bound copies of the completed work will be in the hands of the collaborators and the public before the close of the present year. Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co., of Boston, will be the publishers, and the printing is in progress at the University Press at Cambridge. I have here for your inspection 160 page-proofs of the electrotype plates, and the matter of 130 pages more is in type. About 50 pages of the plates are cast each week. We expect the printing will be completed early in December. Comparing with the old edition the rate of progress in the alphabet, the present indications are that the new edition will make 1500 pages—each page having twice as much matter as in the old edition. The price of the work has been fixed at $15, which, considering the amount of matter, is relatively less than one half the publication price of the old edition, and one fifth of the selling price."

In due time we shall show more fully the great usefulness of the forthcoming work. It may not be out of place now, however, to add as a reminder, that the service which by this work will be rendered to literature is of such magnitude that booksellers should not be contented with securing a copy for their own use, or for the convenience of their customers, but should make it their duty to recommend its purchase to everybody who can afford it. It is one of those works which should not be treated merely as merchandise. It should be regarded as a great aid and "tool" to the profession. It is one of those works, alas, which are rarely paid for in proportion to their value.

TARIFF ON BOOKS.

MR. STEIGER has sent us a batch of papers on behalf of the "Removal of the Duty of Books," which, we understand, will be supplied on application to any one interested in the movement. The papers contain a reprint from the N. Y. Evening Post, of Mr. Steiger's "Arguments in Support of its Repeal" (both in English and in German), and Mr. Houghton's "A Publisher's Arguments against the Abolition of the Duty on Books," as addressed to the Chairman of the Tariff Commission, and citations illustrative of Mr. Steiger's standpoint, from the Times, Nation, and Frankfurter Zeitung; also a blank for signatures, headed: "In order to enlist early and universal coöperation the undersigned is willing to give the labor and expense necessary for preliminary exertions to secure the removal of the import duty on books, etc., and to that end requests the return of the subjoined petition with signatures, for presentation at the next session of Congress. E. Steiger, 25 Park Place, New York."

We learn from the Philadelphia daily papers that a meeting of the Book Trade Association was held at Philadelphia, Oct. 10, for the purpose of determining some definite resolutions to lay respectfully before the Tariff Commission, which meets in that city on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday next. Because of the large duties which the book trade pays on raw materials, it must have duty to protect it; if the duties on raw materials could be taken away, the trade could then compete with the foreign markets. A paper which had been placed in the hands of the Secretary by Mr. Stoddard, to be discussed on its merits by the Association, was then read.

It contained several suggestions relative to the tariff, which were not deemed by the Association as exact as a paper by C. C. Febiger, of Henry C. Lea's Son & Co.'s publishing-house, the basis of which was presented by Mr. H. T. Coates. Mr. Febiger strongly advocated a specific duty of 25 per cent per pound, which he showed would be the same as 25 per cent ad valorem, and would also prevent fraud. While it now takes three weeks to get books through the Custom House, it would not require an hour to weigh and deduct for tax. A committee of five was then appointed to consider Mr. Stoddard's paper, and also to examine the paper prepared by Mr. Febiger. The committee consisted of H. F. Coates, J. R. Jones, R. S. Menamin, George R. Fagan, and C. C. Febiger. It was resolved that the sentiment of the trade is that specific duty is better than ad valorem.

THE HOME OF THE CENTURY CO.

THE CENTURY COMPANY send us advance-sheets of an article descriptive of the new offices of the company and embracing also the "True Story of St. Nicholas." The building in which, since September, 1881, the offices of the company have been located is already a prominent landmark at the head of Union Square, uniting the advantages of a central location with the verdure and sunshine of a beautiful park. A large vestibule leads to the broad staircase, built of carved and panelled mahogany, and to a passenger elevator, which carries the visitor swiftly to the fifth floor. This is occupied exclusively by The Century Co., and in available area is equal to an eight-story building covering an ordinary city lot, the frontage on the square being seventy-five feet, the rear frontage on Eighteenth Street one hundred and twenty-five feet, and the depth nearly two hundred feet.

Spaciousness and air of unobtrusive elegance are the first impressions derived from a view of the rooms. The decorations are simple, and the coloring of the walls and wood-work quiet and harmonious. The wood-work of the main publication office, which the visitor first enters, and that of the wide corridor extending through the building to the Eighteenth Street front, is painted a shade of Indian-red. The walls are tinted a light grayish Indian-red, and the frieze, which is nearly five feet deep, and the ceilings throughout are of a grayish-buff tint. All of the wall-space is brightened by the original drawings, in color or in black-and-white, of many of the engravings that have appeared in the pages of the magazines. A portrait of the late Dr. Holland hangs in the front office. From the front windows, a hundred feet above the street, a charming view is had of the park below, bordered on one side by the bustling life of Broadway, while over the trees and the house-tops beyond can be seen the dome of the Post-office and the towers of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The article is amply illustrated and is full and minute in its description of the pleasant offices and of the scope of work of both the celebrated magazines issued therefrom, and will be of interest not only to the many thousand readers of The Century and St. Nicholas, but also to the trade through whose agencies the magazines reach their eager readers.

The Century Co. is now, in a limited sense, a coöperative organization, since all of the stock is held by the responsible heads and principal workers of the business and editorial departments. By continuing this policy, it is hoped that the control of the enterprise will remain in the hands of the principal workers for many years to come, thereby insuring a continuance of the vigor and enthusiasm which have advanced The Century and St. Nicholas to their present high place in periodical literature.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON announce that the first large edition of their handsome volume of "Folk and Fairy Tales," by P. Chr. Abjörn-sen, being exhausted by advance orders, they will have a second edition ready October 21. Their new edition of Simms' work in its attractive dress has started off remarkably well.

HARPER & BROS. have ready this week "Travels in South Kensington," with notes on decorative art and architecture in England, by Mon-cure D. Conway, fully illustrated; "Laurence Sterne," by H. D. Traill, in the English Men of Letters series; "A Transplanted Rose," a story of New York society; and "Diddle, Dumps and Tot; or, Plantation Child-Life," by Louise Clarke Pyrnelle, illustrated with a large number of characteristic drawings.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have published in the series of Questions of the Day the first part of a "Citizen's Manual," a comprehensive summary of the organization of governments—national, state, and logical—the electorate, and the civil service, edited by Worthington C. Ford. They have also just ready a volume, which every parent may read with profit, entitled "Those Children and Their Teachers," by Byron A. Brooks; "Studies in Early English Literature," by Emelyn W. Washburne, uniform with Morley's "English Literature;" and "Star Flowers," by Urania Locke Bailey.

GEBBIE & Co., who have heretofore devoted themselves to subscription-books, have entered the field as general booksellers. Their initial publishing venture is in the line of high-class works of much promise. These are Livy's "History of Legendary Rome," translated from the original text by George Baker, illustrated with two hundred engravings, and including, as a novel feature, the introduction of Macaulay's "Lays" in their appropriate places in the history; Suetonius' "Lives of the Twelve Cæsars," translated by Alexander Thomson, M.D., the first American edition of this old classic; and the second edition of the "Life of Joshua Davidson," a theoretical novel, by E. Lynn Linton, telling the story of a pure and moral modern enthusiast who tried to live the life of Christ in the present day.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will issue early next week "Art and Nature in Italy," by Eugene Benson; "Norse Stories, Retold from the Edas," by Hamilton W. Mabie, "The Wisdom of the Brahmin," a didactic poem, translated from the German by Chas. T. Brooks; "The Wife's Manual; or, Prayers, Songs, and Thoughts on Several Occasions of a Matron's Life," by the late William Calvert, rector of St. Antholin, printed and ornamented in the style of Queen Elizabeth's Prayer-book; and the initial volume of the third series of the No Name novels—"Her Crime."

SCRIBNER & WELFORD will issue on the 23d inst. two superbly illustrated volumes—the most important of which is "Florence," by Charles Yriarte. This sumptuous volume, like the one on Venice, which it fitly supplements, treats of the history, the rulers, the scholars, the architecture, the painting, and the sculptures of that grand old city by the Arno, and is illustrated by over 500 photogravures and engravings. The advance orders indicate for this volume a success as phenomenal as that of its predecessor. The other volume is Challamel's work on "The History of Fashion in France; or, The Dress of Women from the Gallo-Roman Period to the Present Time." The volume is translated by Mrs. Cashel Hoey and Mr. John Lilley, is illustrated with 21 richly-colored and illuminated plates, and is handsomely bound in imitation satin-wood, with a characteristic side stamp of a peacock feather over a hand-glass in colors and gilt.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue at once a volume entitled "Christ's Christianity," being the precepts and doctrines recorded in Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John, as taught by Jesus Christ, analyzed and arranged according to subjects, by Albert H. Walker; the second part of William Cory's "Guide to Modern English History," covering the period from 1830-'35; J. A. Doyle's "English Colonies in America," and a cheap (25 cent) edition of "Democracy." Next month they expect to issue J. A. Symonds' two volumes on Italian literature; Bernhard ten Brink's "Early English Literature (to Wiclif)," translated by H. M. Kennedy, and "Sibylline Leaves," an ingenious little work which does "fortune-telling" by giving extracts from the poets in response to questions regarding one's destiny. They have in preparation for the Leisure Hour series "New Arabian Knights," by Robert Louis Stevenson.

PERSONAL NOTES.

THE congratulations of the trade will be unstintingly given to the enterprising young head of the stanch old house of Scribner in view of the ceremony at Stamford, Conn., on Thursday, October 5, which united in marriage Mr. Charles Scribner, of this city, and Louisa, daughter of Rev. Jared B. Flagg, D.D.

MR. GEORGE D. T. ROUSE, of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY Office, was married to Miss Ella Hotaling, of Kingston, N. Y., at the Church of Our Saviour, New York City, on Wednesday evening, October 11. The congratulations and good wishes of his associates are extended to Mr. Rouse and his bride, and are all the more hearty and sincere in the light of the pleasant memories of his long and faithful association with this office and his devotion to its interests.

Darley's Illustrations to Evangeline.

EVANGELINE: A Tale of Acadie. By HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. With sixteen illustrations by F. O. C. DARLEY. Oblong folio, unique binding, in a box, $10.

Sixteen designs, depicting in a very effective and graceful style the leading scenes and principal characters. The pastoral simplicity of the Acadians, the pitiless cruelty which drove them from their homes, the long and fruitless wanderings of Evangeline—these are described by Mr. Darley's pencil with a noble and picturesque beauty altogether in harmony with the poem.

The designs have been reproduced in a manner which brings out effectively their vigor and grace; they have been printed on a hand-press to insure the best possible result. The typography of the poem is sumptuous and beautiful, and the binding at once striking and tasteful, the whole forming an artistic gift-volume which will delight all lovers of art, all who have read the charming poem, and all who can appreciate beautiful books.

John Randolph.

By HENRY ADAMS. Fifth volume in "American Statesmen" series. 1 vol., 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

John Randolph of Roanoke is one of the most interesting figures in American political history, and in this volume Mr. Adams has depicted his career and character with a force and distinctness which will make the volume one of the most attractive in the series to which it belongs.

New Volume by Robert Browning.

Containing AGAMEMNON, LA SAISIAZ, PAULINE, and DRAMATIC IDYLS (First and Second Series). 1 vol., 16mo, $1.50.

This volume comprises all of Mr. Browning's poems not contained in the edition of his works published by HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO., and groups all of them together, to enable those who have the previous volumes to complete their edition of Browning. The poems included differ widely in subject and in style of treatment, but embrace some of the strongest and most characteristic of Mr. Browning's poetry.

History of the Papacy during the Reformation.

By M. CREIGHTON, M.A., Vicar of Embleton, Northumberland, late Fellow and Tutor of Merton College, Oxford. 2 vols., 8vo. Vol. I. The Great Schism—the Council of Constance, 1378–1418. Vol. II. The Council of Basel—the Papal Restoration, 1418–1464. $10.

The story of the Reformation has been often and fully told, but the history of the Papacy during that most eventful period is much less known, and Mr. Creighton's work admirably supplies the desired information.

Through Siberia. Cheaper Edition.

A Companion Volume to "Venice."

FLORENCE.

Its History—The Medicis—Its Scholars, Architecture, Painting, Sculpture, etc. By CHARLES YRIARTE. Illustrated by over 500 photogravures and engravings. 1 vol., folio, richly bound in cloth extra, gilt edges, morocco backs, $20; or in full morocco, $28.

This sumptuous volume, perfect in every attribute of elegance, fitly supplements the author's artistic work on "Venice," the success of which was something phenomenal. Dealing with the great Art City of Italy, the home of Dante and Michael Angelo, the centre of all that is purest in architecture, painting, and sculpture, with an influence extending throughout the world, "Florence" well deserves to be loved and unceasingly studied. This volume is confidently placed before the public as having few equals in the domain of illustrated literature.

THE HISTORY OF FASHION IN FRANCE;

OR, THE DRESS OF WOMEN FROM THE GALLO-ROMAN PERIOD TO THE PRESENT TIME. From the French of M. Augustin Challamel. By MRS. CASHEL HOEY and MR. JOHN LILLIE. 1 vol., imperial 8vo, with 21 richly colored and illuminated plates, handsomely bound, imitation satin-wood and gilt, $10.

Fashion is the expositor, from the standpoint of costume, of our habits and our social relations; in a word, of everything appertaining to the charm of life; it has its value as a moral sign post, and supplies the historian, the philosopher, and the novelist with a guide to the prevailing ideas of the time. This work is of genuine importance as a comprehensive history of the subject, and of universal interest, appealing to every class and nation. In a clear and graphic style, lightened by frequent social and illustrative anecdote, the author follows thoroughly the course of Fashion from the "pastel dye" and "tattoo" of the primitive Gauls down to the more graceful and artistic effects of the year 1880; while the 84 distinct figures, brilliant in colors, supply abundant pictorial embellishment. A new and unique binding of exceptional beauty and effectiveness renders the book as a whole all that can be desired.

N.B.—Early orders from the Trade are solicited for the above, the editions of both being limited.

A CORRECTION.

Somehow, since our Spanish Bible has become a household favorite in foreign countries, the impression has gone abroad that we publish the HOLY BIBLE in every language. We disclaim this flattering reputation. We own as yet only the modest variety of English, German, and Spanish plates—Protestant and Catholic versions. But the additional features of our Bibles have been imitated and translated into almost every tongue, and our elegant bindings are the standard for imitations on both sides of the Atlantic.

Teachers' Bibles in great variety of bindings, containing a Bible Dictionary, and other valuable features not found in either the Oxford or Bagster editions. Large type Revised New Testament. Fine line of Photograph Albums, for imperial, cabinet, and cartes-de-visite pictures.

Collected and Edited by CHARLOTTE FISKE BATES, of Cambridge, compiler of the Longfellow Birthday-Book, etc. With steel portrait of Longfellow, and 16 full-page illustrations from original designs by Church, Dielman, Fredericks, Fenn, Gifford, Murphy, Schell, Smillie, and others. Engraved by George T. Andrew.

Over 900 pages, royal 8vo.

Cloth, full gilt.....	$5 00
Half mor., gilt top.....	7 50
Full mor., gilt.....	10 00
Tree calf gilt.....	12 00

Printed on extra calendered paper, with golden brown border rules, and bound with designs of exquisite beauty in attractive shades of muslin and leather. The mechanical excellence of presswork and binding leaves nothing to be desired in this respect, and combine to make it one of the most beautiful volumes of selections ever published.

The illustrations have been designed expressly for this volume by some of the best artists in the country, are far superior to anything ever before attempted in a similar work, and the value of the book is greatly enhanced by these beautiful specimens of American art.

The time and labor bestowed by the compiler in preparing the work for the press, and the care taken to have the text accurate and free from typographical errors, with the addition of three indexes, which are minute and complete, render the work of great value to those who may use it for reference.

The collection is especially full and complete in extracts from living American authors, many of whom are represented in no other compilation, while the alphabetical arrangement of authors places the extracts from each author in one section instead of being scattered through the book under different headings—a convenience which will be appreciated by those who examine the volume.

The whole work has been faithfully performed without regard to time or expense, and the various features above enumerated give it that standard character which it has been the aim of the compiler and publishers to produce.

NOTICE TO BOOKSELLERS.

THE LITERARY NEWS for Christmas, 1882, will embrace at least thirty-two pages of reading matter and illustrations, and we intend to make it far superior to any previous year, also hoping to issue it earlier than heretofore.

Its sole aim and object is to increase the sale of books, and every bookseller who distributes it may be sure of being benefited thereby.

The chief attraction of the forthcoming issue will be the numerous specimen illustrations from the most prominent and popular new holiday books.

The most valuable feature, besides the Literary Notes, will be a special price-list of the Books of the Season, in all the departments of Holiday Literature.

To those who desire to reach a wider public than they feel they can afford to seek through the more expensive Christmas Number of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, the Christmas Number of the LITERARY NEWS is recommended as the best possible medium to cultivate a holiday trade.

ISSUED BY

[ALL ENTERPRISING BOOKSELLERS.]

The Trade edition ILLUSTRATED CHRISTMAS NUMBER of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY will be issued during the latter part of November, to give time for the imprint editions to reach all dealers not later than the first week in December.

The Number will as usual present the finest specimen illustrations from the NEW HOLIDAY BOOKS, with special articles on the leading works, a full descriptive summary of books and stationery novelties, reference price-lists covering the ILLUSTRATED WORKS, BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG, and other CHOICE BOOKS published during 1882, etc., etc. Every endeavor will be made to surpass the issues of previous years, pronounced by the German "Book Trade Magazine" the most attractive publication of the kind issued in the book-producing countries.

The imprint edition (intended for distribution by dealers with their sole imprint) will be printed immediately after the issue of the Trade edition, under the title of "CHRISTMAS CATALOGUE," as given above.

The local bookseller can add half as much again to his holiday trade by properly calling the attention of the public to his goods. For this purpose, the best means is the circulation of this handsome, interesting, and comprehensive CHRISTMAS CATALOGUE, which is received with pleasure by those to whom it is given or sent, as itself a picture-book of no little value; and its descriptions of, and illustrations from books, at once arouse the desire to purchase the books themselves.

No better investment can be made by the bookseller who wants to make the most of his holiday trade.

Orders filled in the order of size of edition, largest first, and then of receipt. As the paper is specially made for this issue, orders should be received at once, as the filling of later demands cannot be guaranteed.

The thick paper edition of the CHRISTMAS CATALOGUE will be supplied as follows:

SINGLE COPIES (postpaid),	40 CTS.		PER 100 COPIES (with imprint),	$20 00
------------------------------------	---------	--	---	---------

The thin paper edition, with dealers' imprints, will be supplied at the following rates:

PER 100 COPIES,	$10 00		PER 500 COPIES,	$38 00
" 250 "	20 00		" 1000 "	75 00

Orders should be sent in at once, and in order to avoid delay, it is absolutely necessary that copy for imprint, together with full directions for forwarding, should accompany the remittance. All packages sent by express unpaid, unless other shipping directions are given.
